County Fathers at Chicago: Supervisors Gottle, Duthie, and Moore of the special committee appointed by the county board to investigate road-rollers, visited Chicago last week and looked over the various makes. The county is going to buy three machines next January and the manufacturers wanted to pay all expenses of the junket as they did in the case of the City Fathers, but the County Dads said "No!" and today wish, to the effect that the county was too rich and proud to accept such favors.

CITY RULERS AT VENISON FEAST

GOOD-FELLOWSHIP WAS ONE OF THE MANY KEYNOTES

GUESTS OF CHIEF APPLEBY

And Alderman Dullin Numbered Thirty—And Elaborate Five-Course Repast Was Served in Royal Style at Grand Hotel.

Town pride and the good fellowship which means true appreciation; the breath of balm and the wild lure of the chase; peppy, good humor, and eloquence—such of these with the other in an effort to become the leading motif of the venison feast and its aftermath at the Grand Hotel last evening. City Marshal W. H. Appleby, genial, original, and host of this now annual gathering, and his brother, Under Sheriff George Appleby, were seated at the end of the long, formal board, resplendent with snowy linen, glittering silver and glass, great jardinières of yellow and white chrysanthemums and pink carnations at every plate, while Mayor or Heddies and the aldermen were grouped around a great round table which joined it on the western end. Shortly before ten o'clock the serving of the five-course feast began and it was a feast long to be remembered by every participant. Every epicure knows the difference between "wood-lard mutton" and venison that "skillfully treated by butcher and chef, and many tasted venison for the first time last evening.

When full justice had been done to the splendid repast and the glasses were lighted, Toastmaster Heddies beamed on the "little company of many talents" and warms them in his genial fashion to prepare for the toast. Judge Charles L. Pifford was the first to respond and after a number of anecdotes and a whimsical lament that he had not been invited to the banquet given a year ago, he paraphrased some of the lines of Scott's "Lady of the Lake" to offer this tribute to the host:

Hail to the chief, who in triumph advances
From Ke-No-She-A's Norway place!
Long may the club that's due to his flourish and flourish the wherewith to dine!
Heaven send it many deer
Like the one we've had here
Nearly to fault his dinner to give—
While such Wisconsin glen
Sends out abouts back again
Here's to our host and long may he live!

Alderman J. J. Dullin, who was associated with City Marshal Appleby in the preparations of the banquet, in response to the toastmaster's demand to know whether the location of the bullet-wound revealed anything of the hunter's possible reign of vintage, told of the long, silent watches on the "run" with only the red squirrels to keep him company and other vicissitudes of the hunt. In introducing the host, Mayor Heddies said that every man should take of his hat to the police—"The men who guard our lives and property while we are wrapped in security and slumber," told about his observations of the high respect paid to the policeman of London whose uniform had may even stop the king; and introduced the speaker as "one of the bravest officers Rock county had ever known." The city marshal said that he never did think there was anything which would prevent a police officer from talking but confessed that the Mayor's little speech had almost silenced him. In the course of his remarks he paid his respects to the knoockers—paid manufactured by his own department by a like number of arrests last season; dwell for a time on some of the hardships known to himself and his men; and placed himself on record as being in favor of a general boost to the hotels, the banks, and everything and everybody that deserved it. Tributes and good stories were forthcoming from Dr. W. H. Judd, president of the fire and police commission; W. C. MacLean, also of that body; J. C. MacLean, the secretary, who supplemented an anecdote with the reading of "Gunga Din"; John F. Sweeney, City Atty, Maxwell, Under Sheriff Appleby, Aldermen Sheldon, Buchholz, Sheridan, Clark, Merritt, Jones, and Heddies, Health Commissioner W. D. Merritt, and others.

There were several contributions of original poetry, variously attributed to Bert Hoard and others. Geo. Simpson read the following:

Around the Ke-No-She-A club,
Where the deer were getting fat,
Jack Dullin trumped with his old gun
While Bill Appleby just sat.
Upon a stump and smoked his pipe
From morn till break of day,
While Jack just shot and shot and shot
And the deer were there to slay;
Jack swore and shot and cursed the chief,
But never a deer got ho,
While Bill just laughed and smoked away
As gleeful as could be,
Jack Dullin finally shot a deer,
Just like an oldtime guide—
The deer just jumped a rod or two,
The bullet glanced his hide;
No deer were bagged—they skipped for home,
They struck an expert shot—
It cost them five and twenty plunkies,
Tonight we eat the pot.

LOANI BAND PLAY WAS BIG SUCCESS

Large Audience Witnessed Presentation of "Tara" at Congregational Church Parlor Last Night.

Despite the inclement weather conditions, a large audience witnessed the amateur theatrical performance of "Tara—Star of the East" given under Loani Band auspices at the Congregational church parlor last evening. The play is woven about the fortunes of a Hindu girl who is stolen from her Chaldean protectors and after many vicissitudes is at last restored to friends and the man she loves. The pathos and charm of the heroine's life and character were wonderfully well revealed by Miss Vera Lytle, who proved herself possessed of dramatic talent of a high order. Mrs. F. H. Lincoln as the wealthy American lady, Mrs. Charles Sutherland as the medical missionary, Miss Mabel Westlake in the male role of "Naryan" and all of the other principals and members of the "support" were splendid in their respective parts. The church orchestra, led by Mr. and Mrs. F. Lewis, played, and a violin number by Mr. Hayner of Chicago and the Indian school girls solo by Miss Agnes Griebel were all very pleasing. A substantial collection for mission work in India was taken up. It is possible that a second presentation of the play will be given.

THE ROUNDUP COLUMN.

The Baseball Jokers Are Working Overtime—Billard Gossip.

Here is the latest winter baseball joke. My, my, but then rule makers is a merry gang of jesters! Read the following newspaper dispatch:

Chicago, O.—To prevent the continuance of the rule prohibiting the signing of players the national baseball commission has announced that rule 29 of the national agreement had been entirely changed. The new rule adopted reads in part:

"Rule 29.—No sale of a minor league player by one league club to another club shall be permitted within ten days of the first drafting day of each year, and whenever a minor league player is sold by one club he shall be required to report to the purchasing club within three days after his sale."

"All sales of minor league players by one league club to another shall be reported to the national commission at least five days before the first drafting day of each year."

So the national commission wants to abolish "farming." Does it? The members of the commission well know that they are all in favor of farming players, that they always will do it while they own interests in clubs and that the only way to abolish farming is to abolish the national game of baseball.

A billiard expert gives the following solution of the vexing problem as to why a collar button is probably the most elusive object in the universe, barring even the almighty dollar in public times.

"The reason why a collar button rolls under the chiffonier is that it naturally takes English when it hits the floor. This is the result of patient experimentation. The top of a chiffonier or a dresser, as the case may be, slopes toward the front, provided the floor is level. Very well. When a collar button slides the orbit for which it is intended it falls on the top of the chiffonier or dresser. Then it starts rolling. As it rolls it gathers momentum until it drops over the edge loaded to the guards with English. When it hits the floor it resumes its rolling. We would have a lot of vexation of spirit if we studied natural angles."

George Sutton upset the calculations of all the cue guessers when he walloped Jake Schaefer in Chicago recent.

SUTTON DEFEATED SCHAEFER IN CHICAGO, by in a contest for the 18.1 ball line championship title. Schaefer made the mistake of holding Sutton too cheaply, and the ponderous Sutton, practicing continuously in private and unknown to the "Wizard," developed sensational form.

Of course Sutton and Schaefer will play again, and of course Schaefer will improve on his last performance, but just how much no one can tell.

The baseball games are being played around the stove now, and isn't it surprising the number of 300 hitters we have in our midst? They hit hard in the winter time, but in the summer time—

High Jennings was as great as a ball player as he is now as a manager. Originally a poor batsman, though occasionally fast in fielding and running, Jennings began to wallop the ball all over the lot after going to Baltimore under Ed Hannon. He became absolutely fearless at the bat and one of the most dangerous hitters for the pitcher to have come up. His batting figures and rank during the great years were as follows:

Year.	Rank.	Pct.
1894.....	40	.312
1895.....	8	.388
1896.....	2	.397
1897.....	11	.353
1898.....	18	.325

During the sixteen years that he played Tall his grand average was .309, coupled with 410 stolen bases, 228 sacrifice hits and a countless number of "passes." Is it any wonder that Jennings was named "Hughes the Hit-It" by George V. Hobart, who at that time was a newspaper man in Baltimore.

As the last horse train blew out of Aqueduct, New York, recently when the last race meet closed the chorus under the forward track of car No. 4, clanked this weird refrain, immortalized several years ago by Bill Porter, who has since pocketed money:

Oh, the meeting now is over,
Twas the worst we ever seen.
There's not a soul among the bunch
That's really got a bean.
Poor Soukey's in the smother,
For he soaked his diamond pin.
He'll ride all night to Bonnings
With his knee up to his chin.
He says to wait for New Orleans,
And then he'll show some speed.
Twas speed that broke poor Tenny down,
Twas suicide indeed.

WILLIE WEST.

All Street Music Banned.
Street music has been prohibited in Leipzig by an order of the municipality. This order applies not alone to barrel organs and street musicians in general, but to gramophones, pianos and other instruments played indoors with open windows. A local newspaper remarks that by the enforcement of this measure the authorities hope to lessen the number of suicides and murders which occur daily.

ADMIRAL EVANS IS WITH HIS FLEET

ASSUMES HIS POSITION AS LEADER OF GREAT MOVEMENT.

TWO LAGGARD VESSELS

Minnesota and Kentucky Slow in Arriving at the Rendezvous—The Warships Make a Fine Sight.

Old Point Comfort, Va., Dec. 10.—The double-armed flag of blue, emblem of the commander-in-chief of the Pacific-bound battleship fleet, was hung to the breeze from the main track, and the battleship Connecticut Monday, and the lead Admiral Robert D. Evans formally assumed his position as leader of the greatest naval movement in the history of the American people.

Monday was assembly day for the fleet, which is to set sail next Monday, and of the 16 great fighting machines ordered to skirt the southernmost end of all America and inaugurate a new naval era in the Pacific ocean, there were but two laggards. These were the 16,000-tonned Minnesota, flagship of Rear Admiral C. M. Thomas, commander of the second squadron of the fleet; and the Kentucky, whose pultry 11,500 tons relegated her to a position at the end of the armored column.

The Kentucky also is the oldest vessel among the 16, having been laid down with her sister, the Kearsarge, in 1888, at the beginning of the war with Spain. Nine years ago is a long period in modern battleship construction, so great have been the strides in American naval architecture.

The Minnesota and the Kentucky are both expected to drop anchor in Hampton roads Tuesday, and then the historic fleet will be complete. The new Maine, which two short years ago was the flagship of the commander-in-chief, but is now thrown back to eleventh place in the list, came in, making 14 battleships at anchor off here.

The ships are disposed in two long lines leading in a crescent which begins just off the Old Point pier and points toward Norfolk. The Connecticut, which lies scarcely more than a stone's throw from the pier, heads the column nearest shore. Next to her is her sister ship, the Louisiana, the champion hard-bitten, fast-drawing vessel of her class, and then in turn come the Kansas and the Vermont, all registering 10,000 tons and belted with steel that is rated well nigh impenetrable.

First Squadron Under Evans.

These four vessels compose the first division of the first squadron of the fleet and are the personal charges of Rear Admiral Evans. The second division in the first squadron is made up of the Georgia, Virginia, New Jersey and Rhode Island. The flag of Rear Admiral William H. Emory, in command of the division, floats from the Georgia's truck. It also bears two stars, but in distinction from that of the commander-in-chief, the flag of all of the three rear admirals who have command of the divisions under Admiral Evans.

The Georgia, Virginia, New Jersey and Rhode Island are all of a type and with a displacement of nearly 15,000 tons each they combine the tremendous force of 19,000 horses and their trial trips have all exceeded 19 knots, a speed attained by few of the heavily armored vessels of the world.

RAILWAY CHIEF ON TRIAL

CASE AGAINST MANAGER OF NEW YORK CENTRAL IS BEGUN.

Alfred H. Smith Accused of Manslaughter Because of Dismal Wreck at Woodlawn.

New York, Dec. 10.—Alfred H. Smith, vice president and general manager of the New York Central railroad, was placed on trial Monday before Justice Kellogg, in the supreme court, on a charge of manslaughter in the second degree, growing out of the wreck of the Ironwater express at Woodlawn last February, in which 24 persons lost their lives and 97 were injured. Gross negligence was charged in the indictment.

The trial moved with expedition and when court adjourned a jury had been selected. Testimony in the case begins Tuesday. In order that the case against Smith might be strengthened District Attorney Jerome appeared in court and asked that the indictment against Ira McCormack, superintendent of the operating department of the New York Central, charging him with manslaughter in connection with the wreck, be dismissed. Mr. Jerome said that McCormack's testimony was essential to the case against Smith and as he could not compel him to testify while an indictment was outstanding against him, he moved that the indictment be dismissed. The motion for the dismissal was granted.

DR. HANNA A MODERNIST?

Cardinal Gottl Explains Delay in Making Him Coadjutor Bishop.

Rome, Dec. 10.—Cardinal Gottl, prefect of the propaganda, Monday evening received Archbishop Rordan, of San Francisco, who, in addition to submitting a full report of his diocese, represented to the prefect the advisability of appointing Rev. Edward Hanna, of Rochester, coadjutor bishop of San Francisco.

Cardinal Gottl, although admitting that Dr. Hanna was first on the list of candidates for that office and was strongly recommended by several cardinals and archbishops, stated that Dr. Hanna was described as professing modernist principles, as would appear from some of his writings, and that therefore his appointment had been held in abeyance.

Archbishop Rordan reported Dr. Hanna, saying that these reports were incorrect and that his attitude had been greatly exaggerated. The propaganda will receive further testimony on this matter.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their results, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing permanent cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandarin root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Harkness, of Jefferson Medical College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Mayo, of Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scherer, D. O., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hays, M. D., of Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

"The Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put out for sale through druggists for the purposes that has any scientific endorsement—worthy of more than any number of "miraculous" testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the most reliable guaranty of its merit. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—clearly pure, triplicate-glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glycerine extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its formula, is mailed free on request. Address Dr. J. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MEN AND WOMEN. It is a fact that many of our men and women are suffering from various ailments, such as indigestion, constipation, and other troubles, and that they are not getting the relief they need. Dr. J. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only medicine that will cure these ailments, and it is the only one that is safe and reliable. It is the only medicine that is endorsed by the highest medical authorities, and it is the only one that is put out for sale through druggists. Address Dr. J. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HIS STATE IS PITIABLE

Facts and Allegations in Indictment of the Veteran for the Surrender of Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 10.—The final stage of the court-martial of Lieut. Gen. Stoessel begins in this city Tuesday. There have been protracted delays in taking the testimony in the far east, but now this material is in order and proceedings will go ahead rapidly.

Gen. Stoessel is accused of having surrendered the fortress at Port Arthur before he had exhausted all the resources of defense. The punishment for this, under the Russian code, is death. He is to be tried also on the charge of lacking initiative and with having exceeded his powers. Gen. Fock and Gen. Reiss are codefendants with him. The first is accused of having conspired the surrender of the fortress and the second with having executed the order of surrender. Gen. Smirnov, Gen. Stoessel's most bitter enemy, is to be tried on a minor count.

Stoessel Badly Excited.

Gen. Stoessel is in a pitiable state of excitement over the final hearing of his case and the doctors are apprehensive of the effect upon the veteran officer, who has suffered two paralytic strokes since the fall of the fortress. The general said Monday that he was glad the trial, after its many delays, was at last coming to its close. He expects to be fully rehabilitated.

The indictments against Stoessel, Reiss, Fock and Smirnov are full of side lights on the final stages of the siege of the fortress and on the confusion which existed in the direction of the defense owing to the ambiguous position of Gen. Smirnov. Nominally, this general held the chief command of the fortress, but actually he was supplanted by Gen. Stoessel, who was little more than the mouthpiece of Gen. Fock.

Before communication with Port Arthur was finally cut off Gen. Kuropatkin both telegraphed and wrote to Gen. Stoessel, instructing him to hand over the command of the fortress to Gen. Smirnov and rejoin the Manchurian army. Gen. Stoessel did not follow these instructions. On the contrary, he remained at Port Arthur and arrogated to himself the supreme authority. Gen. Smirnov found his hands completely tied.

Fock Blamed for Much.

At a military council held on December 7 the food condition was thoroughly canvassed, and the first idea of surrender was formulated in Gen. Stoessel's name by Gen. Reiss, chief of staff. This proposal was rejected by the council. A week later Gen. Fock was appointed chief of the land defenses in succession to Gen. Kondratenko, who had been killed. Gen. Fock is considered to be responsible for the evacuation of vitally important forts between December 18 and January 1, and the evidence on this point is incontrovertible.

The most sensational part of the indictments relate to the immediate circumstances of the capitulation. On January 1, the day after the evacuation of the "Eagle's Nest" and other points, Gen. Stoessel sent Lieut. Malchenko with a letter to Gen. Nogai, proposing to enter into negotiations for the surrender of the fortress. Gen. Reiss and Fock appear to have been the only superior officers cognizant of Gen. Stoessel's intention to capitulate. The news of the dispatch of this letter, when it came out three hours later, caused great indignation among the generals and admirals. Some of them protested by telegraph to Admiral Alexieff and Gen. Kuropatkin. Admiral Wires denounced Gen. Reiss as a traitor. The same day Gen. Stoessel sent his much commented telegram to the emperor, beginning with the words:

"Great sovereign, forgive us. We have done everything within human limits. Judge us, but judge us mercifully."

It Has Wings.

"Yes, money talks; but its favorite remark is 'good-by.'"—Indianapolis Star.

FORMAL OPENING HAS BEEN DECIDED UPON

F. W. Woolworth and Company invite Public to their New Store, 13 W. Milwaukee Street, Tomorrow Evening.

On Wednesday evening the firm of F. W. Woolworth and Company will open their Janesville branch store, one of their 100 stores scattered throughout the larger cities of the country. Knott & Hatch's orchestra will furnish music and the public is cordially invited to inspect the stock.

The entire evening will be devoted to showing the public through the store. No goods at all will be sold. The store comprises twenty-two departments including canned ware, china, crockery, table ware in general, leather goods, jewelry, candy, toys, Christmas tree trimmings, dolls, etc.

The immensity of this establishment may be imagined when it is stated that the firm employs whole villages in Germany who devote their entire time to the manufacture of goods for this concern only. Four of their most competent buyers are sent to Europe each year to contract for the manufacture of goods suitable for their stores. Woolworth & Co. are the largest users of Trans-Atlantic Liners' space in this country.

The success of the firm is attributed to the fact that they buy in such enormous quantities, always making it a rule to give as good values as is possible. An example of this is found in the canned department, where they will show heavy two-cent canned 22 quart dish pans at 10c a piece, 12 quart enamel pans at 10c, 8 quart stew kettles, crockery wash bowls and pitchers at 10c each, novelty hat pins, side combs and back combs at 5c and 10c each. The dry goods department is quite complete in itself showing excellent values; number 60 and 80 silk ribbons at 10c a yard, Japanese handkerchiefs and glove boxes in novelty designs, toys of all descriptions; dolls valued at 25c wholesale and which retail at 50c each, with eyes that open and close, and tastefully dressed, all for 10c each.

One point is insisted upon, and that is: every article complete at a price of 10c or less. No strings are attached and excuses offered for extra charges.

On the right as you enter the store is the jewelry department, showing some excellent Christmas suggestions, on the left is the candy department, and in the center aisle is the blue-brace and pictures. The furnishings of the store are in cherry, the fixtures especially designed for this firm. Each of the entire line of stores are arranged exactly alike, differing in size, some using as much as 3600 square feet of space. The Janesville branch will contain just as many departments and be just as fully equipped as any of the larger stores, the stock being smaller in proportion. The store is located at 13 West Milwaukee street. An excellent window display is shown, the furnishings being in red plush. The store has been enlarged 25 feet and improved with all modern equipments, and a lease has been obtained for ten years.

The manager, Mr. H. K. Grant, is taken from the Cedar Rapids store, and will make his home in Janesville. Mr. Grant is a most appealing young man, and Janesville people will find him a pleasant and affable gentleman to do business with. All the employees of the store will be secured in Janesville. The company has been operating in the west for the past four years, and during that time has opened fifty stores in the west. The invitation to visit the establishment and enjoy the music is extended to the entire Janesville public and quite an ovation is expected.

'He' Knew How.
 "How," asked the young man who had just bought the village paper and desired to win prominence as an editor, "can I get the public to become interested in my journal? I know the principal thing is to make a good paper, but if nobody takes it how will anyone find out that it is good? Something must be done to attract attention—to cause the people to understand that we are on earth." "That'll be easy," said the travelling printer, who had stopped over to assist in putting the printer on its feet. "Just print an item saying that a certain preacher in this town will get into trouble if he doesn't cease paying attention to a certain married member of his flock and cease quick. I'll bet the paper containing that item won't be off the press 40 minutes before there's a copy of it in every house in this town."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Fat Men and Jobs.
 Employment agents say it's about as hard to get work for a fat man as for a gray-haired one. According to their statements, employers of labor hold that a fat man is indolent. They assert that the hustler, the fast, nervous, energetic worker, is slimmer rather than fat, and does 30 per cent. more work than the suit, fat fellow. "It is not uncommon for us to advise fat applicants to diet," said an employment agent, "and reduce their weight before beginning to canvass for a job." So far as recorded, Dr. Osler has expressed an opinion on the expediency of chloroforming men who are running to adipose tissue.

All Were Prime Ministers.
 An eminent surgeon was once sent for by Cardinal Du Bois, prime minister of France, to perform a very serious operation upon him. The cardinal said to him: "You must not expect to treat me in the same rough manner as you treat your poor miserable wretches at your Hotel Dieu." "My lord," replied the surgeon, with great dignity, "every one of those miserable wretches, as your eminence is pleased to call them, is a prime minister in my eyes."—Success Magazine.

Worse and Worse.
 A convict in a German prison had been extremely refractory. One means and another had been tried, but nothing could break his spirit. One morning the governor said to the warden: "I say, Huber, the scoundrel is behaving worse than ever. Put him on bread and water." "But he is already doing two fast days, sir." "Then give him a cocky look to read. We must break his spirit somehow."—Illustrated Bits.

HOGS BANISHED FROM THE CITY

BY ORDINANCE WHICH COMMON COUNCIL PASSED LAST NIGHT.

CAR ORDINANCE CARRIED

Over Mayor's Veto—Chief Klein Scores Mercenary Electricians—Hospital Taxes Remitted.

Over Mayor Hedges' veto the city council last evening passed the Jones ordinance, as amended, requiring street-cars traveling Milwaukee street to stop only at street corners west of the river. There was considerable preliminary argument, Alderman O'Hara stating that he did not believe such a measure was necessary except when cars run every five minutes. Ald. Jones maintained that the ordinance was a "bunch," Mayor Hedges setting forth in support of his action the fact that he deemed it injurious to the best interests of merchants, businessmen, the women and children passengers, and the Street Car Co., which latter concern he did not deem it wise to cripple even in the slightest degree under present circumstances; and City Attorney Maxfield giving his opinion that the measure, because of its obvious discrimination against one section of the city, is void. Alderman Brown was absent. All of the other City Fathers, with the exception of Ald. O'Hara, voted for the passage of the ordinance over the Mayor's veto. If the Street Car Co. refuses to comply, the matter will have to be threshed out in the courts. It is claimed by those who oppose this regulation that the traction company lost money during the three days the provisions of the original ordinance were enforced.

Fire Alarm Since January
Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Klein in his quarterly report stated that since Jan. 1 there had been 71 alarms—the greater number of them "stiffs"—and that with the exception of the fire at the Peltz home on Palm street, Dec. 5, the losses incurred during the last quarter had been small. He did not think the Peltz loss would exceed $400. All the fire apparatus and horses were in good shape, except as noted in previous reports. The Chief mentioned without comment the fact that at a recent meeting of the fire and water commission, or rather a majority of the members of the common council, it was agreed that nothing should be done in the way of repairs or replacement of the alarm fire engine. He asked that the present ordinance be amended so as to bring it up to date. The present measure, he said, was patterned after the rules adopted by the eastern mutual insurance companies in 1880. Since that time there had been great changes in electrical appliances, and material that could be used under those rules would not at this time be permitted by the electrical code of the national board of fire underwriters—the basis of modern inspection. Without any intention to alarm, he wished to remind the council that conditions in Janesville are not what they should be, due largely to the incompetence, indifference, and mercenary motives of certain electrical workmen who perform their tasks, regardless of safety or permanency, with profit as the supreme and only end; and to the fact that the local system of inspection is not sufficiently rigid.

Other Departmental Reports
Reports from City Marshal W. H. Applby showed that during the month of October 134 arrests were made—7 for larceny, 8 for assault and battery, 2 for forgery, 1 for destruction of property, 2 for incorrigibility, and 114 for drunkenness. Of the number 48 were taken to court and 85 discharged. Lodging was given to 164. During November there were 108 arrests—7 for larceny, 1 for forgery, 9 for assault and battery, and 90 for drunkenness. Thirty-seven were taken to court and 71 discharged. Lodging in the city lock-up was furnished to 224. The sum of $150.31 in city marshal's fees allowed by the county board was turned over to the city treasurer.

The board of education's report for November showed that orders aggregating $13,167.29 were drawn. Some of the larger items were: to J. P. Cullen on contract for the Jefferson school improvement—$4,613.50; to the Janesville Coal Co.—$3,199.14; to the city—$5,374.80.

The municipal court during the month of November collected $84 in fines, $25 in penalties, $13.40 in city marshal's fees, and $10.85 in court fees.

To Abate Swine Nuisance
An amendment to an existing ordinance designed to prevent the spread of infectious and contagious diseases and to keep all swine at least 16 rods from occupied residences between the 15th of April and the 1st of November, Alderman Sheldon introduced a measure striking out the limitations and making it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not exceeding $25 for any person to keep, harbor, or maintain, or allow to be kept within the city limits of Janesville, at any time, anywhere, in any city or enclosure. The rules were suspended and the amendment was given its third reading and placed on passage by a unanimous vote. It was an open secret that the existence of a herd of 30 pigs on the Bullock premises on South Main street, where a large pen is said to have been recently erected at a cost of $200, was largely responsible for this sweeping and drastic action.

Sheridan Named as Director
D. G. Dwight, president of the newly organized Janesville Park and Pleasure Drive association, addressed the council, explaining the plans and purposes of the organization to establish a system of parks and drives by popular subscription, holding in trust for the city all property acquired, the advantages of and legal provisions for keeping in close touch with the city government by having one of the aldermen on the directorate; and the possibilities of a movement which had increased the value of property in Madison by $2,000,000 bringing into the city treasury annually $28,000 in extra taxes. On the first ballot for director, Ald. John J. Sheridan received 6 votes and Aldermen Merrill, Sheldon, and O'Hara, one each. Ald. Sheridan was thereupon declared elected.

Big Claim Turned Down.
After the finance committee had submitted its customary report on bills, Chairman Dullin of the judiciary committee moved that the claim of Jeremiah Hingard for $3,000 damages for injuries sustained in a partial-burny upon the night of the 20th of August, by reason of the alleged defective condition of Forest Park Boulevard near the intersection of Logan street, be disallowed. This action of the committee was taken on a motion of injury from William McDermott was laid on the table. The bond of R. O. Falk as a piano dealer was found not to have been properly filled out and was not accepted. Further time was granted the highway committee for the consideration of a written proposition from the Buffalo-Bills road-roller manufacturers to trade in a 10-ton machine on a basis of $2,150 cash or a 12-ton machine on a $2,300 basis. It was decided that the council should meet some evening as a committee of the whole, at the call of the mayor, to discuss the proposed decision. Wierstedt, several agents in the gallery who had come from Chicago in the hope that some decisive action would be taken last evening, tried hard to look pleasant. The aldermen who went on the recent junket had no report to make. It is understood that each one became infatuated with a different model.

Taxes on Hospital Refunded
An order introduced by Ald. Sheldon directing the city clerk to draw on the treasurer for $125.21, payable from the general fund, for taxes illegally assessed against the Sisters of Mercy on the Palmer hospital, property, occasioned considerable discussion. The sponsor of the order gave the citation of a supreme court decision by Justice City, Dyer, and the opinion of two other lawyers in support of his contention as to the illegality of the assessment, and City Attorney Maxfield expressed his opinion on the same side of the question. The order was passed, all voting "aye."

C. W. Schwartz was granted permission to string a push-button wire across West Milwaukee street from the Phoenix to the Lovejoy block. Just before adjournment Ald. ## RED CROSS TO RAISE FUND

ASKS CONTRIBUTIONS FOR THE MINERS OF MONONGAH.

Winter May Bring Much Suffering—Sixty-Six Bodies Brought Out of Mines.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The machinery of the Red Cross society will be utilized in collecting contributions in aid of the families of the victims of the mine horror at Monongah, W. Va. Instructions were sent by telegraph to the state branches of Illinois, Ohio, New York, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, asking that announcements be made through the local newspapers to that effect. They will also be received by the local organizations.

While the immediate needs of the families of the mine victims may not be pressing, it is pointed out that considerable suffering is likely to occur during the winter months and for such a contingency assistance should be available. Mayor Moore, of Monongah has telegraphed that contributions would be gratefully received.

Monongah, W. Va., Dec. 10.—When darkness came Monday night a total of 66 bodies had been brought from the two wrecked mines at Monongah. Rescue work, while slow, was progressing smoothly and as rapidly as due precaution for the rescuers would permit. The fire which caused a suspension of rescue work in mine No. 3 was extinguished at noon Monday.

D. F. Walker, of San Francisco, Taken at Santa Barbara.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Dec. 10.—President D. F. Walker, of the California State Deposit & Trust company, was arrested at the Potter hotel by Policeman Ross Monday. Mrs. Walker fainted. At the police station where President Walker was taken he made the following statement:

"This is a great surprise to me. I am innocent of any wrongdoing in this matter, and came to Santa Barbara some days ago upon the advice of physicians and attorneys, because the affairs of the bank were weighing heavily upon me."

San Francisco, Dec. 10.—Attorney General U. S. Webb late Monday afternoon commenced proceedings in the superior court for the appointment of a receiver for the suspended California State Deposit & Trust company, whose president and general manager are arrested for embezzlement. Superior Judge Coffey issued a temporary restraining order preventing the officials and directors from disposing of the bank's assets in any manner pending the hearing for the appointment of a receiver.

THE PEOPLE ALL

In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. We, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, would say that HERPICIDE means, a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. Sent 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

How a Sideline Dog Tots.

The place was the porch of the store, the time was about 10 o'clock in the morning of a summer day, the people were the amiable loafers—and Old Baumgartner. The person he was discussing about was his son Sophomore. I am not sure that the name was not the ripe fruit of his father's fancy—with, perhaps, the Scriptural suggestion which is likely to be present in the affairs of a Pennsylvania German—whether a communitarian or not—even if he live in Maryland.

"Yes—always last; except at funerals and weddings. Except his own—he's sure to be on time at his own funeral. Right out in front! Iah? But sometimes he misses his wedding. Why, I knowed a fellow—yous all knowed him, hehosen!—that didn't get there till another fellow'd married her—but morn'n a year afterward. Wasn't it morn'n a year, boys? Yes—Bill Blankmont. Or, now, was it his brother—Haltzer Iron-Cabage? Seems to me now like it was Haltz. Somewhere was a B at the front end, anyhow."

Henry Wasserman diffidently intimated that there was a curious but satisfactory element of safety in being late—a "fastnacht" in their language. In fact, those in front were the ones usually hurt in railroad accidents. Alexander Althoff remembered.

"Safe?" cried the speaker. "Of course! But for why—say, for why?" Old Baumgartner challenged defiantly. No one answered and he let several impressive minutes intervene.

"You don't know! Hang you, none of yous know! Well—because he ain't there when anything occurs—always a little late!" They all agreed with him by a series of sage nods.

"But, fellows, the worst is about coming. It's no way to be always late. Everybody else gets there first, and it's nosing for the fastnacht but weeping and walling and gnawing of the teeth. And mebbe the other fellow gets considerable happiness—and a good farm."

There was complaint in the old man's voice, and they knew that he meant his own son Sally. To add to their embarrassment, this same son was now appearing over the Lutech hill—an opportune moment for a pleasing digression. "For you must be told early concerning Old Baumgartner's longing for certain lands, tenements and hereditaments—using his own phrase—which were not his own, but which adjoined his. It had passed into a proverb of the village; indeed, though the property in question belonged to one Sarah Pressel, it was known colloquially as 'Baumgartner's Farm.'"

And the reason of it was this: Between his own farm and the public road (and the railroad station when it came) lay the fairest meadowland farmer's eye had ever rested upon. (I am speaking again for the father of Sally and with his hyperbole.) Save in one particular, it was like an enemy's beautiful territory lying between one's less beautiful own and the open sea—keeping one a poor islander who is mad for the sea—whose crups must either pass across the land of his adversary and pay tithes to him, or go by long distances around him at the cost of greater tithes to the soulless owners of the turnpikes—who aggravatingly fix a gate each way to make their tithes more sure. So, I say, it was like having the territory of his enemy lying between him and deep water—save, as I have also said, in one particular, to wit: that the owner—the Sarah Pressel I have mentioned—was not Old Baumgartner's enemy.

In fact, they were tremendous friends. And it was by this friendship—and one other thing which I mean to mention later—that Old Baumgartner hoped, before he died, to attain the wish of his life, and see, not only the Lutech pasture-field, but the whole of the adjoining farm, with the line fences down, a part of his. The other thing I promised to mention as an aid to this ambition—was Sally. And, since the said Sarah was of nearly the same age as Sally, perhaps I need not explain further, except to say that the only obstruction the old man could see now to acquiring title by marriage was—Sally himself. He was, and always had been, afraid of girls—especially such aggressive, flirtatious, pretty and tempestuous girls as this Sarah.

These things, however, were hereditary with the girl. It was historical, in fact, that, during the life of Sarah's good-looking father, so unfortunate had been Old Baumgartner for the purchase of at least the meadow—he could not have ventured at that time—and so obstinate had been the father of the present owner—he had red hair precisely as his daughter had—that they had come to blows about it to the discomfiture of Old Baumgartner; and, afterward, they did not speak. Yet, when the loafers at the store laughed, Baumgartner swore that he would, nevertheless, have that pasture before he died.

But, then, as it fate, too, were against him, the railroad was built, and its station was placed so that the Pressel farm lay directly between it and him, and of course the "line" went more and more in the direction of the station—left him more and more "out of it"—and made him poorer and poorer, and Pressel richer and richer, and when the store laughed at that, Baumgartner swore that he would possess half of the farm before he died; and as Pressel and his wife died, and Sally grew up, and as he noticed the fondness of the little red-headed girl for his little tow-headed boy, he added to his admiration that he would be hurrying that whole farm before he died—without paying a cent for it!

But both Sally and Sally had grown to a marriageable age without anything happening. Sally had become inordinately shy, while the equettish Sally had accepted the attentions of Sam Fritz, the clerk at the store, as an antagonist more worthy of her, and in a fashion which sometimes made the father of Sally swear and lose his temper—with Sally. Though, of course, in the final disposition of the matter, he was sure that no girl so nice as Sally would marry such a person as Sam Fritz, with no extremely visible means of support—a salary of $4 a week, and an odious reputation for liquor. And it was for these things, all of which were known (for Baumgartner had not a single secret) that the company at the store detected the personal equation in Old Baumgartner's communications.

Sally had almost arrived by this time, and Sally was in the store, with Sam! The situation was highly dramatic. But the old man consummately ignored this complication and directed attention to his son. For him, the molasses-tapper did not exist. The fact is he was overjoyed. Sally, for once in his life, would be on time! He would do the rest.

"Now, boys, chat look at 'em! Dogged if they ain't boss like one another! How's the prober? Birds of a feather flock wiss one another? I dunno. Anyhow, Sel flocks wiss Dots constant. And they understand one another good. Trotting like a sidewise dog of a hot summer's day!" And he showed the company, up and down the store porch just how a sidewise dog would be likely to trot on a hot summer day—and then laughed joyously.

If there had been an artist eye to see they would have been well worth their while—Sally and the mare, so affectionately disparaged. And, after all, I am not sure that the speaker himself had not an artist's eye. For a spring pasture, or a fallow upland, or a drove of goodly cows deep in his clover, I know he had. (Perhaps you, too, have?) And this was his best mare and his only son.

The big boy, clad in broad-branded harness, soft with oil and glittering with brasses, was shambling indolently down the hill, resisting her own momentum by the diagonal motion the old man had likened to a dog's sidewise trot. The looped trace-chains were jingling a merry dithyramb, her head was nodding, her tail swaying, and Sally, propped by his elbow on her broad back, one leg swung between the harness, the other keeping time on her ribs, was singing:

"I want to be an angel
And with the angels stand,
A crown upon my forehead
A harp within my hand—"

His adoring father chuckled. "I wonder what for kind of angel he'd make, anyhow? And Betz—they'll have to go together. Say, I wonder if it is horse-anchors!"

No one knew; no one offered a suggestion.

"Well, it ought to be. Say—he ken perform circus wiss of Betz!"

They expressed their polite surprise at this for perhaps the hundredth time.

"Yes—they have a kind of circus-ring in the barnyard. He stands on one foot then on another, and on his hands wiss his feet klocky-plocky—and he says words—like klocky-plocky—and Betz she kicks up behind and throws him off in the dung and we all laugh—happy after after—Betz most of all!"

After the applause he said:

"I guess I'd better wake 'em up! What you sink?"

They knew he would do it, no matter what they thought. His method, as usual, was his own. He stepped to the adjoining field, and, selecting a clod with the steady polish of the plowshare upon it, threw it at the mare. It struck her on the flank. She gathered her feet under her in sudden alarm, then slowly relaxed, looked slyly for the old man, found him, and understanding, suddenly wheeled and ambled off home, leaving Sally prone on the ground as her part of the joke.

The old man brought Sally in triumph to the store-porch.

"Chust stopped you afore you got to be an angel!" he was saying. "We couldn't bear to sink about you being an angel—an' wiss the angels stand—a harp upon your forehead, a crown within your hand, I expect—when it's corn-planting time."

Sally grinned cheerfully, brushed off the dust and contemplated his father's watch—held accusingly against him. Old Baumgartner went on gaily.

"About an inch and a half apart! Sally, I'm glad you ain't breaking your reputation for being fast! Chust about a quarter of an inch too late for the prize was four on its hair and arms and its frock pinned up to show its new petticoat! Uh! If I had such a nice petticoat—" he imitated the lady in question, to the tremendous delight of the gentle loiterers. Sally stared a little and rubbed some dust out of his eyes. He was pleasant but dull.

"Yasser, Bet, if you'd a-got yere at a inch and a quarter apart! Now Sam's got her. Down in the cellar adlocking molasses together! Doggone if Sam don't get eberything—except his due bills. He don't want to be no angel till he dies. He's got fun enough yere—but Sally—you're like the flow of molasses in January—at courtin'."

This oblique suggestion made no impression on Sally. It is doubtful if he understood it at all. The loafers began to smile. One laughed. The old man checked him with a threat of personal harm.

"Hold on there, Jefferson Dotts Busby," he chid. "I don't allow no one to laugh at my Betty—except chust me—account I'm his daddy. It's a light-word the next time you do it."

Mr. Busby straightened his countenance.

"He don't seem to notice—nor keer—'bout gals—do he?"

No one spoke.

"No, dern him, he ain't no good. Say—what'll you give for him, huh? Yere he goes to the highest bidder—for richer, for poorer, for better, or worse, up and down, in and out, swing your partners—what's bid? He ken play as crooked as a mule's hind leg, sleep hard as a 'possum in winter time, eat like a snake, git left story time—but he ken ketch fish. They wait on him. What's bid?"

No one would hazard a bid.

"Yit a minute," shouted the old fellow, pulling out his bull's-eye watch again. "what's bid? Going—going—all done—going—"

"A dollar!"

The bid came from behind him, and the voice was beautiful to hear. A gleam came into the old man's eyes as he heard it. He deliberately put the watch back in his pocket, put on his spectacles, and turned, as if she were a stranger.

"Done!" he announced then. "Who's the purchaser? Come forwards and take away your property. What's the name, please?" Then he pretended to recognize her. "Ouch! Sally! Well, that's lucky! He goes in good hands. He's sound and kind, but needs the whip." He held out his hand for the dollar.

It was the girl of whom he had spoken accurately as a prize. Her sleeves were turned up as far as they would go, revealing some soft lacetrained whiteness, and there was flour on her arms. Some patches of it on her face gave a potato-like effect to her otherwise aggressive color. The pretty dress was pinned far enough back to reveal the prattler petticoat—plus a pair of trimly-clad ankles.

Severe Pains.

When a prominent nerve is affected, the pain is severe. It is called neuralgia. It may be in either the head or body. Relief comes only when this nerve trouble is overcome. By its soothing and strengthening influence upon the nervous system Dr. Miles' Nerve Remedy moves the cause.

It was about two years ago that I was taken down with what the doctors called lightning rheumatism. Sharp pains would go from one place to another, mostly in my head, and they would last two or three days before I could get relief. During these weeks I would be so nervous that I hardly knew what I was doing. The pains were so severe and exhausting that my husband would have to steady me when walking across the room. I would have fever, and my heart would pound, and in a day or two I would be better. Just as soon as I would expose myself the very least, I was sure to have a spell of nervousness. I have taken lots of doctor's medicine, but I might just as well take water. My mind kept writing me to just try Dr. Miles' Nerve Remedy. I am glad that I was persuaded to do so, for the Nerve Remedy has cured me—has driven it out of my system.

3122 Havannah Ave., St. Joseph, Mo.

Dr. Miles' Nerve Remedy is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.
